Transfer High Schools

Transfer Schools are very good options for youth who are “over-age and under-credited.” They are small, academically rigorous, full-time high schools designed to re-engage students who are over-age and under-credited or have dropped out of high school. The essential elements of transfer schools include: a personalized learning environment, rigorous academic standards, student-centered pedagogy, support to meet instructional and developmental goals, and a focus on connections to college. Each transfer school determines admissions criteria individually. Detailed information can be found below. For admissions criteria and application processing, call the schools. Students, parents and guidance counselors can contact transfer schools directly to set up an intake interview or to learn more about the school.

Young Adult Borough Centers (YABCs)

Young Adult Borough Centers (YABCs), offered through the NYC Department of Education, are evening academic programs designed specifically to meet the needs of high school students who might be considering dropping out because they are behind or because they have adult responsibilities that make attending school in the daytime difficult. Eligible students are at least 17.5 years old, have been in school for four or more years, and have 17 or more credits.

New Visions Schools

New Visions Schools offer personalized and rigorous educational opportunities to K-12 students of all levels and backgrounds. Established between 1993 and 1998 through a challenge grant from the Annenberg Foundation and private and public matching support, New Visions Schools are pioneers in the small school movement and continually seek to implement innovative approaches to teaching and learning that serve as local and national models. Between 1993 and 1998, thousands of parents, teachers, administrators, cultural groups and civic and educational institutions engaged in a collaborative process that resulted in the creation of small, theme-based schools focusing on innovative, student-centered instructional practices.

Regular NYC Public High Schools

If you are starting the high school admissions process from the beginning (after junior high school), you should first get a copy of the Directory of the New York City Public High Schools. These are available to all NYC middle school students, and OCFS has copies in all of its facilities as well as its Community Multi-Service Offices (CMSO). This directory provides detailed descriptions of nearly 400 New York City public high schools, including information about programs, extracurricular activities, special education services and eligibility. It is also available online at <http://schools.nyc.gov/ChoicesEnrollment/High/Publications/default.htm>

Every eligible student is assured entrance into one of the New York City public high schools. To file an application, a student must be a resident of New York City and meet eighth or ninth grade promotional standards. In order to get the most out of the high school admissions process, students should work with their parents and counselors to research their options and apply to the programs of greatest interest to them. Students can rank up to 12 schools/programs on their application. If a student wishes to attend his or her zoned high school, he or she must list the zoned programs of that high school as one of the choices on his or her application. All students must submit their high school applications by the deadline. There are three rounds in the high school admissions process:

Specialized Admissions Round

Students who wish to attend one of the Specialized High Schools must take the Specialized High Schools Admissions Test or audition for Fiorello H. LaGuardia High School to be eligible for admission.

Offers for Specialized High Schools are sent to students in February. Students who receive an offer are also notified if they were matched to one of the programs they listed on their application, and they can choose which offer to accept. If a student opts not to accept an offer to a Specialized High School, he/she forfeits the seat and will not have a place in a Specialized High School. Students who do not receive an offer are automatically entered into the main round.

Main Round

This round is for all students including those who did not receive an offer to a specialized high school. Students will be notified about the program to which they have been matched.

Supplementary Round

If a student does not receive a match in the main round, he/she has another opportunity to select up to 12 new choices during the supplementary round. The process works in the same manner as the main round in that it tries to match every applicant into his/her highest ranked school/program that also ranked them. Students who are not matched to one of their choices will be assigned to an available high school as near as possible to their homes. All students receive a high school match by the end of the supplementary round.

To learn more, read the online publication Choosing A High School: Information for Middle School Students. This book gives suggestions as to how to narrow down schools to make a good match and how to read the High School Directory. It also discusses the difference between types of NYC public high schools, sample application materials, suggestions for parents, and more.

~ GED PROGRAMS ~

NYC Department of Education GED Programs

GED preparation programs prepare students to pass the General Educational Development exam. A variety of different programs in the Alternative District (District 79) are available for students who wish to prepare to take the GED exam.

Learning to Work GED is a program that combines academic instruction to help students prepare for the GED exam with work readiness and career and college exploration activities. Students have the opportunity to participate in a variety of activities that help them develop skills they need for college and the workplace. A Community-Based Organization provides additional support services and helps students get placed in paid internships. There are part- and full-time Learning to Work GED Programs.

Community-Based Organizations GED Programs

Below are community-based organizations that have GED programs. Cost, requirements, and registration information are listed, but always check in advance because there are often changes. The public libraries often have GED programs at several branches. Most GED programs have an age requirement of 18; some start at 17 years old. If you are reading at a lower level than these programs require, go to page 25 to learn about pre-GED programs that work with youth with a 4-7th grade reading level. Dollar amounts subject to change.

~ GED TO COLLEGE PROGRAMS ~

CUNY Prep

CUNY Prep is a full-time college preparatory high school program that operates from 9 a.m. to 2:20 p.m. Monday through Friday. The program is credit-granting and operates year round. Most students stay with the program for a minimum of six months and a maximum of a year. The focus is on college and college readiness, not the GED exam. All students are expected to have a serious interest in, and commitment to, attending college upon graduating. Students take classes in Humanities, Science, Mathematics, College Survival, Writing, Health/PE, and electives such as computers, media literacy. Special interest clubs are available. Classes are 70 minutes long and students are provided with breakfast and a hot lunch.

The aim of the program is to provide our students with the skills, knowledge and confidence needed to:

- Apply and be accepted to college
- Pass the GED test with a high score
- Set and accomplish academic and personal goals

All students who graduate from the program receive follow-up services, such as support from our staff, alumni meetings, and assistance with college life. The school partners with college campuses of the City University of New York (CUNY) to ensure a smooth transition for those students who choose to attend a college in the CUNY system.

CUNY Catch (College Alliance for Transitional Career Help)

CUNY Catch is a transitional program, initiated by LaGuardia Community College, to serve adolescents at risk who are attending high school and preparing for release to their home communities. This alliance of LaGuardia, Bronx Community College, and Medgar Evers College has developed a model for transitional services that is recognized nationally for its strong case management approach, and emulated by both New York City Department of Correction and New York State Education Department.

From its inception in 1991, CUNY Catch has operated in both detention and sentencing facilities in New York City. The program combines the collaborative efforts and resources of City University of New York and the Department of Education, and has the assured cooperation of the Department of Correction, and additional agency support of the NYC Office of Criminal Justice. The target population is the adolescent inmate, as well as the youngster on probation or simply at risk.

The program provides outreach and career counseling on Rikers (at eleven facilities), and post-release aftercare at three CUNY campuses. Along with the integration of learning and work, family participation, and general health issues and referrals, the program emphasis is on entry to academic and vocational training, career development and preparation for entry into the labor market.

~ PRE-GED PROGRAMS ~

Community Education Pathways for Success Program (CEPS)

The Youth Development Institute (YDI) developed the Community Education Pathways for Success Program (CEPS) in 2005. The program enables young adults (16-24 year olds) who have left school without a diploma to return to school, complete their GED, and prepare for and enter college and/or the workforce. The CEPS program works with youth who read at the 4-7th grade level and are therefore ineligible for a GED program. This is a pre-GED program that combines a youth development approach for the education, social support, and career development of this population.

NYC PUBLIC SCHOOL COLLABORATIVE PROGRAMS

The City University of New York's commitment to the education of all New Yorkers begins long before the start of freshman year. Through its Collaborative Programs, CUNY invests substantial human and financial resources in the service of public school students and out-of-school youth. The work CUNY does with the NYC public schools through the Office of Academic Affairs is known collectively as Collaborative Programs.

Currently, Collaborative Programs include CUNY-sponsored or affiliated schools; programs with pre-college and college courses and activities, academic advising and support services; and arts projects. The Office of Academic Affairs manages these efforts in partnership with the New York City Department of Education and other organizations. CUNY was also recently selected by the Department of Education to be one of the new Partnership Support Organizations. <http://web.cuny.edu/academics/CUNYPublicSchoolPrograms.html>

College Now is CUNY's largest collaborative program, enlisting all 17 colleges and nearly 300 NYC public high schools in its mission to help prepare students for high school graduation and success in college. The program provides a variety of no-cost opportunities, including college-credit courses, college-preparatory courses and activities, experiential-based summer programs, and access to campus facilities and cultural offerings.

A New York City public high school collaborates with one or more of the 17 City University of New York (CUNY) colleges to create a College Now partnership. The program then offers eligible students a number of ways to improve their high school performance and get a jumpstart on college.

College Now offers many activities and opportunities:

- academic courses (both for high school and college credit)
- campus-based tours and cultural events, such as theater or dance performances
- exclusive scholarship offers

To take college credit courses students must qualify, usually with a 75 on the English and/or Math Regents exams. These courses are therefore taken mostly by 11th and 12th graders. Precollege courses do not require Regents exams and focus on preparing students for college-level work.

More information can be found at our web site:

www.collegenow.cuny.edu

Middle Grades Initiative/GEAR UP is designed to support public school students' academic work and college awareness, beginning in the middle grades so they will be prepared for high school, College Now opportunities, and, eventually, success in postsecondary education. The program provides multi-year support services through school-based tutoring, advising and counseling, and early college awareness and arts education programs.

In MGI/Gear Up, students are followed from middle school through high school and schools are partnered with a CUNY college.

Requirements/Accessibility:

At this time, MGI/Gear Up is not enrolling new 6th and 7th graders. However, if a student transfers into a classroom where a current cohort exists, they will be incorporated into the program.

The Early College Initiative works with the Department of Education to re-design the secondary school experience. Students enter early college schools—of which there are currently 10—in the 6th or 9th grade, study with a mix of high school and college faculty, and have the opportunity to earn both a high school diploma and an associate degree (or two years of transferable credit) upon graduation.

Early College Schools are based on the belief that all students deserve a high-quality education that adequately prepares them for college-level work. There are no admission exams and students of all abilities are encouraged to apply. The selection process is designed to create a student body that reflects the neighborhood in which the school is located.

Early College Schools

- are small in size—no more than 575 students at capacity
- accept students from all backgrounds and ability levels
- enable students to graduate from high school with up to two years of college credit
- provide support to students by making use of after school and summer instruction
- use college facilities and resources

CUNY Affiliated Schools span all levels from pre-K to 12th grade. College faculty members frequently work with their counterparts at these schools on matters of professional development, curriculum alignment, and placement of student teachers. Eleventh- and twelfth-grade students in many of these schools have the same opportunity as College Now students to enroll in college-credit courses.

The Affiliated Schools Program of The City University of New York provides college-sponsored educational activities for New York City public school students. By helping develop and deepen professional connections between college and school educators, the Affiliated Schools reflect the advantages of sustained, cross-institutional attention to post-secondary preparation.

CUNY Prep (CUNY Preparatory Transitional High School Program) is a full-time, year-round academic program that serves out-of-school low-income youth between the ages of 16 and 18. CUNY Prep is committed to developing life-long learners who have the academic, personal, and social skills necessary for higher education, expanded life opportunities, and active participation in community and civic affairs. The school culture fosters resilience, reflection, and success in both principle and practice.

Grade Level:

GED, between the ages of 16 and 18, evening program for students age 19 or older.

Enrollment:

To be considered for admission, students must be 16-18 years old, out of school for two months (or have a long-term absence designation), and have at least an eighth grade reading level. To begin the admissions process, interested youth and their parent(s)/guardian or other support person will need to:

- Attend an Open House (Open Houses are usually scheduled a month prior to the start of the fall, winter and summer sessions).
- Take a Stanford 10 Reading test at the Open House.
- Meet with an admissions and evaluation counselor for a personal interview, during which potential students will be asked about their past educational experiences, commitment to a full-time, year-round program, and personal issues that may impact their efforts at CUNY Prep.

Once a potential student successfully completes the above requirements, he or she will be asked to return to take the Stanford 10 Math and ABLE exams. Finally, successful applicants must attend and complete a week-long orientation at the start of the semester.

College Terms 101

There are many unique terms that colleges and universities can use to describe important processes. This is a list of commonly used terms and their definitions.

Application Options

Early Decision

Some colleges offer students the option to apply to his/her first choice early. If a student is accepted for an early decision deadline, the student agrees by contract to enter that college and to withdraw all other applications from other colleges. Early decision deadlines are generally in November with a decision mailed to the applicant in December. This is generally best for students who have very strong grades and are very likely to be accepted into the school to which they are applying. If you are interested in applying for early decision, please make sure to read the early decision policy for individual schools.

Early Action

This is also an application system that allows students to apply to their schools extremely early within the school year. If a student is accepted for an early action deadline, the student is still able to apply to other schools and generally has until the spring to make his/her final decision. If you are interested in applying for early action, please make sure to read the early action policy for individual schools.

Rolling Admissions

In this process, the admissions office will review an application as soon as possible after the applicant has completed his/her application. Decisions are generally mailed out within a few weeks after they are made. If applying to a rolling admissions process, students should ask about preferential dates and are encouraged to send their completed application earlier rather than later. If accepted for rolling admissions, there is no implied commitment on the part of the student to attend.

Degree Options

Associate's Degree

These degrees are offered by 2- year schools.

AA: Associate of Arts

AS: Associate of Science

AAS: Associate of Applied Science

AFA: Associate of Fine Arts

Bachelor's Degree

These degrees are earned in a specific subject area and offered by 4-year schools.

BA: Bachelor of Arts

BS: Bachelor of Science

BFA: Bachelor of Fine Arts

Professional Degrees

These degrees are earned after achieving a bachelor's degree to demonstrate advanced specialization in a specific area. Some examples are Master's degrees, Medical Doctor degrees, Law degrees, and Academic Doctoral degrees.

Financial Aid

Grants

These are awarded on a basis of need. Grants do not need to be repaid.

Types of Grants

Educational Training Voucher (ETV)

ETV offers funds to youth in care and former youth in care to allow them to attend colleges or vocational training programs. Visit www.statevoucher.org for application information.

Federal Pell Grant

This grant is based on financial need to help undergraduates pay for their education. It is an "entitlement" program, which means that if eligible, the student must receive the grant regardless of the school that he/she attends.

Federal Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant (SEOG)

This grant is given based on financial need with priority given to Pell Grant recipients.

School Grants

Individual colleges may offer grants to their students. The application requirements will depend on the guidelines set by the college, so be sure to ask about grant options when talking to financial aid representatives.

Tuition Assistance Program (TAP)

The New York State Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) is intended to help cover costs at New York Colleges. To apply for TAP, you must be a resident of New York State for twelve consecutive months prior to the term that you are applying for, and you must be eligible to attend a college in New York State. Visit www.hesc.org for application information.

Loans

Loans must be repaid after graduation. Student loan programs generally offer low interest rates.

Types of Loans

Federal Perkins Loan

This is a low interest, federally funded loan program. It is administered by the school and based on financial need. While in school the interest on the loan is paid by the federal government. Once you graduate or leave school, you have a 6 month grace period before you start to repay this loan.

Federal Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans

The Federal Stafford Loan is a low-interest loan made to students who demonstrate financial need. The school determines loan eligibility and the loan may be made through a lender. While in school the loan may be subsidized, meaning that interest is paid by the government while the student is in school, or unsubsidized meaning that the student is responsible for the interest on the loan.

Financial Aid

Scholarships

These are awarded on the basis of need and/or achievement. Schools or outside organizations can offer scholarships. Scholarships do not need to be repaid.

Work-Study

This is a type of financial aid package offers students who qualify, an opportunity to work on campus and be paid for their work.

Standardized Tests

ACT

The American College Testing (ACT) Assessment is a testing alternative to the SAT. The ACT tests English, Mathematics, Reading, and Science Reasoning. Although SAT tests are required for entry into most colleges, many colleges accept the ACT as alternative criteria for admission. Be sure to ask colleges if they accept ACT scores.

PSAT/NMSQT

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/ National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test is a two-hour exam testing verbal and mathematics questions. This test may be taken by sophomores or juniors, and if a junior scores exceptionally high he/she is considered for the National Merit Scholarships. The PSAT/NMSQT should be taken in preparation for the SAT and is given in the early fall.

SAT

The SAT tests critical reading, mathematics and writing skills. Calculators are permitted for the mathematics section. These scores are generally used as criteria for admission to college and also for placement into classes. The SAT can be taken multiple times and colleges will consider your highest scores when making their decision. Be sure to speak to your school counselor about fee waivers and also disability accommodations.

SAT Subject Test (SAT IIs)

This test measures knowledge in specific subject areas and may be required for admission into specialized programs. Check with individual colleges regarding admission requirements.

TOEFL

Students whose native language is a language other than English and who have received low verbal scores on the PSAT or SAT should consider taking the TOEFL. Check with individual colleges regarding admission requirements.

AmeriCorps: To be eligible youth must be at least age 17. If youth have not received their high school diploma, they will be encouraged to pursue GED preparation classes at the same time that they are working as AmeriCorps members. AmeriCorps is a 10-month, full time residential program for men and women between the ages of 18 and 24. Full-time AmeriCorps members perform 1700 hours of service and upon completion earn an education award of $4,725 that can be used to pay for college or to pay back qualified student loans. Full-time AmeriCorps members also receive a living allowance, health insurance, and if income eligible, child care. Part-time members perform 900 hours of service and upon completion earn an education award of $2,363. In some cases, part-time members are also eligible for a pro-rated living allowance. Members also receive training and learn valuable life skills. <http://www.americorps.gov>

The Department of Labor's One-Stop Career Centers are designed to provide a full range of assistance to job seekers under one roof. Established under the Workforce Investment Act, the centers offer training referrals, career counseling, job listings, and similar employment-related services. Customers can visit a center in person or connect to the center's information through PC or kiosk remote access.

<http://www.careeronestop.org>

Educational Opportunity Centers provide tuition-free services in Academic Programs, Adult Basic Education, Vocational/Occupational Programs that lead to achievements such as College Entrance, obtaining of a GED, enhanced literacy and/or math skills, and/or career-related preparation, internships and job placement.

<http://www.ed.gov/programs/trioec/index.html>

Job Corps is a free education and vocational training program administered by the U.S. Department of Labor that helps young people ages 16 through 24 improve the quality of their lives through vocational and academic training. Funded by Congress, Job Corps has been training young adults for meaningful careers since 1964. Job Corps is committed to offering all students a safe, drug-free environment where they can take advantage of the resources provided. <http://www.dol/topic/training/jobcorps.htm>

YouthBuild is a youth and community development program that simultaneously addresses core issues facing low-income communities: housing, education, employment, crime prevention, and leadership development. In YouthBuild programs, low-income young people ages 16-24 work toward their GEDs or high school diplomas, learn job skills, earn a stipend, and serve their communities by building affordable housing, and transform their own lives and roles in society. <http://www.youthbuild.org>

Vocational and Educational Services for Individuals With Disabilities (VESID) Adult Vocational Rehabilitation Services. VESID provides vocational counseling and rehabilitation services that result in successful employment outcomes for individuals with disabilities and their employers. Vocational Rehabilitation is a process that involves application for services, eligibility determination, vocational counseling, and the development of an Individualized Plan for Employment (IPE) to provide services leading to employment

Once you contact VESID, you will be asked to attend a group orientation session. The orientation will provide you with a description of the types of services that VESID provides. All the necessary forms needed to apply for VESID services will be given to you at that time. You may take them home and return the completed forms at your convenience. VESID staff will be available to answer any questions that you may have. As soon as we receive the completed forms necessary for a VESID application and to determine eligibility for VESID services, an appointment will be arranged for you to see an eligibility counselor. Your counselor will talk to you about your disability and ways in which VESID services may help you become employed. During this meeting you may be asked for information about your background, including questions about your physical and/or emotional health. Information about how your disability affects your ability to work will help us decide if you are eligible for VESID services. With your permission, it may be necessary to obtain additional information from your doctor, hospital, school, or ask that you to go for evaluations (at our expense).

Once we have all the information and you have met with our eligibility determination counselor, a decision about your eligibility for VESID services will be made within seven (7) business days. If you have been found eligible to receive VESID services, a Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor will be assigned to work with you.

The Young Adult Internship Program

The Young Adult Internship Program offers youth who are out of school and out of work the opportunity to develop essential skills for today's workforce through a combination of educational workshops, counseling, and short-term paid internships. Participants are paid $7.15 per hour for time spent in orientation, workshops, and internships, and can earn up to approximately $2,500 while enrolled in the program. After completing the program, participants receive help in finding the most appropriate next step - whether school, advanced training, or employment. Eligibility: Young adults ages 16 to 24 who are out of school and out of work, and who have a minimum of a sixth grade reading level. YAIP is recruiting participants on a regular basis. Contact DYCD's Youth Connect at 1-800-2465-4646 for the site near you.

College Preparation and Campus Support Programs

College Discovery (CD) Two year CUNY Junior Colleges

College Discovery is a special program funded by New York State for financially and educationally disadvantaged students. Students who are in the CD program may receive money for books and fees. These funds are grants and do not have to be repaid. CD students also receive additional counseling and tutorial services through the Department of Student Life. <http://web.cuny.edu/academics/academic-programs/programs-of-note/seekcd/discovery.html>

SEEK-Four year CUNY Senior Colleges and Universities

Search for Education, Elevation and Knowledge (SEEK) is a higher education opportunity program found at each of the senior colleges of the City University of New York. The SEEK Program provides special academic, finance and counseling assistance to students entering college for the first time. The program provides services to help students excel in the college setting. <http://web.cuny.edu/jobs/recruit-diverse/Retention/SEEK.html>

The Talent Search Program

The Talent Search Program helps under-represented youth to successfully complete high school and gain entrance into post-secondary schools. We offer advisement and resources in college awareness, the college search, financial aid and applications, and transitioning from high school to college. The program services include individual consultation, college preparation workshops, college visits, a college fair, financial aid workshops, and a resource library. <http://www.ed.gov/programs/triotalent/index.html>

Upward Bound Program

Upward Bound provides fundamental support to participants in their preparation for college entrance. The program provides opportunities for participants to succeed in their pre-college performance and ultimately in their higher education pursuits. Upward Bound serves high school students from low-income families and high school students from families in which neither parent holds a bachelor's degree. The goal of Upward Bound is to increase the rate at which participants complete secondary education and enroll in and graduate from institutions of postsecondary education.

- Take the SAT and ACT in the early spring.
- Compare your SAT/ACT scores to the admissions requirements of colleges that you are interested in attending.
- Take your list of schools and divide it into “Reach”, “Target”, and “Safety” schools:
- “Reach Schools” are colleges that you would like to go to but have admissions criteria (SAT scores, Grade Point Average) that are slightly above your current scores and grades.
 - “Target Schools” are colleges that you would like to go to and have admissions criteria (SAT scores, Grade Point Average) that are similar to your current scores and grades.
 - “Safety Schools” are colleges that you would like to go to and have admissions criteria (Sat scores, Grade Point Average) that are lower than your current scores and grades.
- Meet with your school counselor to discuss your lists and how you can improve your chances of getting into the college of your choice. Cross off any schools that no longer interest you, but keep at least two schools in each category.
- Visit the colleges on your lists and ask to sit in on a class at each school.
- Research costs for the schools you are interested in, and start to look for scholarships, grants, and financial aid options that can help you to pay for your education.
- Study hard and get good grades!
